Farmingville, NY – Supervisor Edward P. Romaine and Councilwoman Valerie M. Cartright attended the Eagle Scout Court of Honor for Jeremy G. Rahner of Boy Scout Troop 377, at Neighborhood House on Saturday, August 22nd.

Mr. Rahner's Eagle Scout Project consisted of four information signs and a fence indicating a trail head at Forsythe Meadow County Park, Stony Brook. The signs contain descriptions of poison ivy and how to avoid contact with it, how to prevent tick bites, the invasive nature of bamboo, and a directional sign marking the trail and indicating the direction of the parking lot. This project included donations of tools and supplies and the time of community volunteers.

"I recently joined Legislator Kara Hahn at the ribbon cutting for the new trail at Forsythe Meadow County Park," stated Councilwoman Cartright. "I appreciate all that Jeremy did to enhance the experience of walking the trail and I am happy to join him today to celebrate the honor of reaching the rank of Eagle Scout."

"Congratulations to Jeremy for completing his service project and achieving the rank of Eagle Scout. Boy Scouts are the leaders of tomorrow, and from meeting Jeremy, I can say that we'll be in good hands," said Supervisor Romaine.
