Farmingville, March 19, 2010 NY - On Saturday, April 17th Councilwoman Connie Kepert and over 4,000 residents endured cold and rainy weather to participate in the Great Brookhaven Clean Up, an annual community effort to clean up litter throughout Brookhaven Town.

"This program helps both children and adults to become engaged in community activities and creates a sense of pride in what you can do to make a better place to live," said Councilwoman Connie Kepert.

On Saturday, May 15th Brookhaven Town will sponsor a Beautification Plant-In, where hundreds of community members will participate in planting and gardening activities at a variety of locations throughout the town. The town is asking for your help to identify locations in your community that needs beautification, and to become involved in those beautification efforts. For additional information go online to www.brookhaven.org or call 451-TOWN.
