Farmingville, NY - Supervisor Mark Lesko was the guest speaker at the Town of Brookhaven's "Job Boot Camp," a series of eight, high intensity training classes that will provide job hunters with the right tools for attaining a job. This free program is sponsored by the Town's Division of Economic Development and will provide the opportunity for attendees to learn the proven fundamentals of finding a job, how to write resumes, interview strategies and how to network and make the right connections that will get them noticed and hired.

"The Job Boot Camp is a great opportunity for job hunters to acquire all the tools necessary to succeed," said Supervisor Lesko, "After getting through the eight classes, each recruit will use the new skills they learned here to help land the job they want. This is just one more example of how our Division of Economic Development is working to create job opportunities and get people back into the workforce."

Job Boot Camp is run by Maria Frey of Executive Consultants of New York, an organization that specializes in career development and networking. The Town has previously worked with Executive Consultants on a similar program for the Women's Services Division. The Town will end this workshop with the JobHaven.org Job Fair on June 5. Visit www.brookhaven.org for more information.

The "Job Boot Camp" is one of the Town's initiatives to assist Brookhaven job seekers. Last year, the Town launched jobhaven.org, an interactive website that provides one stop shopping for people looking for employment in and around the Town of Brookhaven.

Registration for the "Job Boot Camp" is now closed and no new recruits are being accepted. For more information on the Town's Division of Economic Development, visit www.brookhaven.org.