Farmingville, NY - Supervisor Mark Lesko and Deputy Supervisor/Councilwoman Kathleen Walsh joined with Long Island ABATE (American Bikers Aimed Toward Education) members to post a motorcycle safety awareness sign on the corner of North Ocean Avenue (Route 83) and Middle Country Road (Route 25) in Selden. The sign reminds motorists to be aware of motorcycles and to promote motorcycle safety.

"Long Island ABATE is a great organization that does so much good in the community," said Supervisor Lesko, "I hope all motorists make a point to increase their awareness of motorcycles so that we can make the roads safer for everyone."

"Motorcycle awareness and education is so important," said Councilwoman Walsh, "I am proud to work with Long Island ABATE to help get the motorcycle awareness message out to our residents. This sign can save lives."

ABATE President Jim Barr said, "Our goal is to build a working relationship with all Town, County and State levels of Government. The level of cooperation and support that we have received from the Brookhaven Town Supervisor's office is unprecedented. We look forward to continuing our partnership in order to improve safety on the roads for all motorcyclists."

Long Island ABATE is a not for profit organization, its main purpose is to work toward continued freedom of the road by insuring that motorcyclists' point of view is presented to our legislators and to promote motorcycle safety, rider education, and awareness.
