Farmingville, NY - The Town of Brookhaven's Department of Housing and Human Services has announced that their donation drive for those residents affected by Hurricane Sandy has ended. The Town received hundreds of donations of supplies like cleaning materials, blankets, batteries, water, and non-perishable foods in the wake of the storm, which left thousands of Brookhaven residents without power.

Acting Supervisor Kathleen Walsh said, "Our Department of Housing and Human Services did a fantastic job in collecting important supplies to donate to those who were affected by Hurricane Sandy and I would like to thank all of those generous residents who donated and made this initiative a great success."
