Farmingville, NY - The Friendship Senior Club of Rocky Point has been improving the quality of life for local residents more than thirty years. Many of its members are involved with different organizations that Brookhaven Town Superintendent of Highways Daniel P. Losquadro has been assisting for more than a decade. Last week Superintendent Losquadro was invited to swear in the Senior Club’s elected board members and appointed trustees.

"These men and women are the type of people that bring a community together and make it strong," Superintendent Losquadro said. "I am very happy to once again perform this act and see so many people I have gotten to know over the years at the same time."

"Many of our members have lived in this community their entire lives," said Joe Cognitore, Vice President of the Senior Club and Commander of Rocky Point VFW Post 6249. "We take tremendous pride in knowing that through all the changes, the younger generations have maintained our core values. Dan Losquadro is a great example of this. He has continuously dedicated his skills toward improving our neighborhoods."

"This club provides an opportunity for seniors in Brookhaven Town to get together and socialize every week," said President Mae Dechent. "This is important because before you know it, time passes and people do not stay in touch with one another."

The Friendship Club is looking to recruit new members. Meetings are held every Wednesday at 11 a.m. at the Rocky Point VFW, located at 109 King Road in Rocky Point. If you are interested in becoming a member, contact Mae Dechent at (631) 205-1629.
