Farmingville, NY – On April 30, the Town of Brookhaven's Recycling Coordinator Aide, Nicole Pocchiare (left), joined the Mount Sinai Harbor Advisory Committee and local volunteers from the community to participate in the "William Waltz Annual Cedar Beach Clean Up" in Mount Sinai. During the event, Ms. Pocchiare presented a tabletop demonstration including material about Single Stream Recycling, the Great Brookhaven Clean-Up, Councilwoman Jane Bonner's Go Green Event, and other Special Collection Events in Brookhaven this year. She also gave out cloth totes to encourage people to rely less on plastic bags and to "Reduce, Reuse, Recycle" and provided information about composting, natural gardening, and sustainable living.

"Cedar Beach is one of our most popular destinations and we need to preserve its beauty," said Councilwoman Jane Bonner. "I thank all the volunteers who came down to help, and especially the members of the Mount Sinai Harbor Advisory Committee for taking the lead in this very worthwhile effort."
