Farmingville, NY - On May 10, Councilwoman Jane Bonner was a guest panelist at the "Water We Going To Do" Water Worries Conference held at the Huntington Hilton and hosted by the Group for the East End, Long Island Pine Barrens Society, Nature Conservancy and Citizens Campaign for the Environment. Topics discussed at the conference were Everyone Must Play a Role, which Councilwoman Bonner participated in, and Magnitude and Certainty of Declining Drinking and Surface Water Quality, Why We Must Act - The Consequence of Inaction and The Future is Now. Other panelists and speakers included representatives from the federal, state, county and town government and

"Our water supply is part of an extremely fragile eco-system that we all must work to protect and preserve so future generations can enjoy the clean water that we sometimes take for granted." said Councilwoman Jane Bonner, "I was happy to contribute to the discussion and I commend all the groups that sponsored the conference."
