Farmingville, NY - On Saturday, June 21, Councilman Kevin LaValle (right) and Superintendent of Highways Daniel P. Losquadro (left) attended the Brookhaven Highway Department Bicycle Rodeo at Brookhaven's Safety Town in Holtsville. It was a non-competitive which was fun for children of all ages and featured free safety inspections and skills course. They also gave out free children's helmets and fitting. Also pictured is four year old, Joseph Losquadro (center).

Councilman LaValle said, "The Bicycle Rodeo was great fun, but more importantly, they teach bicycle safety. The work that that the Town does at Safety Town can save lives and I encourage parents to bring their children to the next one in August."

"Children benefit greatly from this program because they learn why it is so important to always practice bicycle safety," Superintendent Losquadro said. "I have heard a lot of positive feedback from parents and want to thank the instructors at Safety Town for teaching these important lessons."

The event was organized by the Town's Highway Department Traffic Safety and Street Lighting Division along with the Suffolk County Sheriff's Office STOPPED program. The next bicycle rodeo will be on August 16 from 10:00 am to 1:00 pm at Brookhaven Safety Town.
