Farmingville, NY - Recently, Councilman Kevin LaValle (right) visited Dawnwood Middle School to speak with students in the After School Club. He discussed many topics with the group, including Single Stream Recycling, the Animal Shelter, Holtsville Ecology Site and the new Selden Dog Park, a project spearheaded by the Councilman. He also let the students know about other happenings around the Town of Brookhaven. The Councilman answered questions from the students and took suggestions from the club.

"Spending time with students is one of the most enjoyable aspects of my job," said Councilman LaValle. "I am always impressed by how knowledgeable they are about their community and their enthusiasm for helping to make it a better place to live."
