Farmingville, NY - Brookhaven Town Councilman Dan Panico recently held his 5th Annual Basketball Challenge at the Mastic Athletic Complex. The event, part of the Town's Safe Summer Youth Program, drew nearly 50 participants from the area, who took on Councilman Panico and his All Star Team, which included Congressman Lee Zeldin, fellow Town Board members Neil Foley and Kevin LaValle, Councilman Panico's wife Deanna and Dave Genaway, a former Brookhaven Town Deputy Planning Commissioner, for a friendly game of basketball. A total of 11 games were played, with Councilman Panico's team securing seven victories. Winners of the contest received tickets to a Long Island Ducks game, courtesy of WJVC Broadcasting. The evening's festivities also featured musical entertainment provided by Party 105.

"This annual contest is one of my favorite events because it allows me the opportunity to interact with our younger constituents," said Councilman Panico. "It's a tremendous amount of fun, and a tradition that I hope to carry on for many years to come. I thank all of my teammates for participating, the Town Youth Bureau, the Parks Department, WJCV Broadcasting, and the Mastic Ambulance Company for standing by during the games."
