Program helps children entering foster care

Farmingville, NY - The Town of Brookhaven's Youth Bureau and Holtsville Internal Revenue Service Center ended their annual "Totes for Tots" drive on March 31. The program, which is designed to help children entering foster care, is run by the Brookhaven Youth Bureau's INTERFACE program. During the month of March, residents and IRS employees dropped off new and gently used duffel bags, large backpacks and small suitcases that will be filled with coloring books, crayons, stuffed animals, a blanket, toothbrush and toothpaste and other items. These bags are then given to displaced children who are being moved to foster homes to help with the packing of their belongings, rather than having their possessions placed in bags.
