Farmingville, NY - On Saturday, December 8th, Brookhaven Town Councilman Dan Panico and New York State Senator Lee Zeldin co-sponsored an event during the Army vs. Navy Collegiate Football game to raise funds for the victims of super storm Sandy.

"I want to thank all those who donated to help our neighbors in need, especially during this holiday season," commented Brookhaven Town Councilman Dan Panico. "I particularly want to thank John O'Hara and his family for their generous donations, William Floyd School Board President Bob Vecchio for promoting the event and John Giannott who provided us the venue and outstanding food and beverage specials - he truly went out of his way to make this event a success. I know that I speak for Senator Zeldin when I say that it is particularly gratifying to be able to serve the communities in which we grew up and to also provide at a different level during these tough times."

The event raised approximately $3500 as well as clothing and food. It was a great game with the Navy winning 17 to 13 at the end of the game.
