Farmingville, NY - Brookhaven Supervisor Ed Romaine held a luncheon meeting today with the mayors of villages located within the Town of Brookhaven to discuss issues and problems in their municipalities, and seek ways to work together to provide better service for our residents at a savings to taxpayers. Topics of discussion at the meeting included joint purchase agreements, emergency and storm response, plowing agreements, and a review of SuperStorm Sandy in an effort to learn from each area's experiences. There are nine villages located within the Town of Brookhaven, more than any other town in Suffolk County. Also attending the meeting was Highway Superintendent Dan Losquadro.
