Farmingville, NY - Brookhaven Supervisor Ed Romaine recently hosted a roundtable discussion with civic associations from across the town. More than 50 representatives from dozens of community organizations participated in the three hour event, discussing issues affecting their areas. This was the first meeting in more than 40 years that brought together all civic groups in the town.

"This roundtable was a huge success on a number of levels," said Supervisor Ed Romaine. "In addition to having an important dialogue on both town-wide and neighborhood-specific problems, we were able to find several unique and creative ways to address certain issues. My office will work to address all of the issues brought forth during this meeting, and continue to work together with these organizations to improve the quality of life in their communities. I look forward to hosting another civic roundtable in the near future."
