Farmingville, NY - Effective Monday, September 29th the Brookhaven Highway Division of Engineering will begin operating out of the second floor at Town Hall, allowing residents and contractors to apply for all work related permits required under one roof. Brookhaven Highway work permits are currently processed at 1140 Old Town Road in Coram, while other permits involving the same scope of work are determined at Town Hall, located at 1 Independence Hill in Farmingville.

"Employees from the Highway Engineering Division work with Planning, Building and Traffic Safety staff at Town Hall on a daily basis to make decisions on permit applications," Superintendent Losquadro said. "By moving our Engineering Division to Town Hall, all divisions and departments involved in the process will be working in the same building, providing a much easier and more efficient work flow. This will also simplify the process for residents and contractors who will now be able to apply for all necessary work related permits in one place."

Supervisor Ed Romaine said, "I applaud Superintendent Losquadro's efforts to streamline the workflow between Town departments. The bottom line is that this move will result in higher level of productivity and a more convenient experience for anyone applying for a permit."

The Highway Department's Division of Engineering will process the following out of Town Hall: block party applications, final inspection request forms, applications for Highway work permits, road improvement plan samples, fee schedules, transfer affidavits, assignments of escrow and Ecology Site use applications. In addition, information can be obtained on how to get a release from a Highway work permit.

The phone number for the Highway Department's Division of Engineering will remain the same. To speak with someone from Highway Engineering, please call (631) 451-9200 x7.
