Farmingville, NY - On Saturday October 18, Councilwoman Connie Kepert spoke at the Division of Woman's Services eighth annual Conference and Expo held at Town Hall. The theme of this year's event was "Woman Empowering Woman," and featured guest speakers, vendor booths and four workshops promoting wellness and personal growth in the lives of women in the community. Pictured above are Housing and Human Services Commissioner Diana Weir, keynote speaker Phyllis Hill Slater and Councilwoman Kepert.

"This event draws women from all walks of life that leave here inspired to improve their quality of life," said Supervisor Ed Romaine, who presented the opening remarks. "I commend our Division of Women's Services for sponsoring the Conference and Expo and for leading the way to help women throughout our community."

"Our Division of Women's Services and its volunteers are truly committed to improving the quality of life of women throughout the community and I applaud them for taking the lead by organizing this worthwhile event."

"Thank you to Commissioner Weir, her staff, Phyllis Hill Slater and all the vendors who helped make the conference and expo a great success. Every year, we get such an enthusiastic crowd and this was no different. It was an enjoyable and educational day for all and I was very happy to be part of it," stated Councilwoman Kepert.
