Farmingville, NY - On December 23, Supervisor Ed Romaine (left) visited the Boys and Girls Club of the Bellport to wish the staff and children Happy Holidays and to inspect the new gates and security lighting at the club. The funds were secured by the Town's Housing and Human Services Department through a Community Development Block Grant. The new gates and lighting will allow safe passageway into Robert Rowley Park which is directly behind the club. Also pictured are Boys and Girls Club Executive director Tracie Romandetti (second from left), Housing and Human Services Executive Assistant Leah Jefferson (right) with Boys and Girls Club staff and children.

Supervisor Romaine said, "The Boys and Girls Club have such a positive impact on the community by giving children a safe place where they can have fun, learn and be with their friends. We are happy to help them in any way that we can and will continue to support their efforts in the community."
