Farmingville, NY - On Wednesday August 5, Supervisor Ed Romaine (left) joined with local children from the Three Village area at the annual Spencer Lane Kids Lemonade Stand Fundraiser in Stony Brook. Every year the children of Spencer Lane put together a Lemonade stand to help raise money for Stony Brook Children's Hospital. The lemonade stand was started three years ago when brother and sister Maddie and Joseph Mastriano decided to sell lemonade for a good cause. As soon as the stand went up in front of their home, the neighborhood kids all pitched in right away, eager to help. Supervisor Romaine presented the children with a proclamation, recognizing their efforts to help the children's hospital.

Last year the children raised $1010 from lemonade sales, and an anonymous donor matched their contribution, bringing their total to $2020.
